A glorious Easter Sunday with a cool southeast breeze.
Temperature is about 20° and the view is so clear we can see to all horizons. We started Good Friday at Spring creek (½ way between Melrose + Wilmington) and followed the Heysen trail. Will continue to Quorn. On for a beer and a shower. We stink like polecats. The walk itself is fantast
The effort to reach the summit is rewarded tenfold.
← Its also great to find no olives or African daisey.
Thank you Mr Brown + Flinders for finding this place

21/6/90 Camped near the summit (20/6/90) with the above group. Arose early to watch the sun rise with Chris and Matthew D. It was magnificent; I recommend it to you if you ever get the chance. The vivid blues and reds in the sky, the mists in the valleys, the changing colour of rock, the dimming of the town lights in Pt Pirie, Pt Augusta, Pt Germein, Wilmington, Melrose, Stirling and Quorn, and the new day's sounds of birds singing their first melody for the day were exciting to be a part of.

Meredith Reardon, 400m below Summit!

14/10/91. 36° Today but O.K. up here. Country looks good. Evidence of wool producers round summit – they like the sweet feed too! Fences O.K. Query on markers NNW of here? Good to see positive comments in here. Cheers

14/10/91 Left pencil here as bird nearly out. If you have a spare, consider doing the same. Horses are pretty stuffed, a sign of summer coming on. Now for the trip home.

Daniel thank you.

Look Brawny choose something more challenging next time OK.

The only reason why we are here is that we were threatened if we did not come on this blastered bushwalk we would fail PE isn't that right Mr Jordan?

Ruffy. 29/10/91.

Davo & Griff, It's 2½ hours to camp from here and all down hill. Our group has been excellent and navigator "mollie" has led all the way. Up the Roosters!

20/5/92 "Please read this my friend if you have a moment to share, and an ear to listen."

"It's beautiful up here, isn't it! Away from the hustle and bussle of everyday life. To bad everyday can't be like this, a mountain top experience. What a pity we have to go back down again and try and play our part in society. We kid ourselves and pretend that our contribution is necessary. But however important we may seem, the truth is that with or without us life goes on."

"But you know it's funny, up here you get this strange feeling, like you're not alone, like there's someone else with you, watching you, silently, secretly waiting, hoping you'll notice Him, or maybe just what He has made." "Ah Yes, you have to admit, He does a pretty good job when He makes something as you can see."

"Perhaps while you're here you should remember, that while you're looking at the beautiful scenery, He's not, He's looking at you. Because you're the reason He made all this after all."

"I know!" Why don't you do a swap. You give Him you, and He'll give you this feeling, like standing on top of a mountain for ever and ever."

" Perhaps this could be what life's about? I know one thing, it's not down there! Maybe there's a little bit more to life than we thought."

" Doesn't have to stay that way!

But how do you start?" I know, how about saying "Sorry for forgetting You and the reason I'm here" "Please forgive me, I got caught up with the wife the kids, the car, the job, the morgage. Let's start again!"

" Now that sounds like a pretty good swap to me! That's why I did it 10 years ago!

God bless you my friend,

and keep you safe on your journey,

through this life and into the next.

If you want to write to me..

19-5-94 Grant Da Costa, Aspendale, Melb. Vic, after 2½ weeks solo walking/driving in the Flinde 1½ weeks to go. Fine weather but cold S. Westerly has produced considerable haze so visibility is not so good, but I can see enough to get the idea. And what a great idea it is! This is my sixth trip to the Flinders, I just love it. Its vital that the area be protected from over-exploitation, massiv tourist development (eg resort at Wilpena), indiscriminate use of vehicles eg Camping area at Warren Gorge, and the yobbo camper who distributes rubbish and other less pleasant substances in all directions. I'm really pleased to say that most areas seem to be well looked-afte and appreciated by the majority who visit.

There's no doubt that the Flinders/Gammons has walking equal to the best Australia has to offer, but it hasn't been "discovered" like, for example, Central Australia. I hope it remains the province of the walker.

And please, save us from 5-star resorts with golf courses for international tourists (Wilpena aga This would be like adding a melanoma to the face of the Mona Lisa.

End of verbal diarrhoea - well, what do you expect, the book is the only one around to talk to!

Monday 18th July '94. Sheila McCarthy. Well worth all the effort. A perfect day to see everything - fine, cool, sunny and very clear.

Monday 18th July 1994 — Lance McCarthy again. Could not bear to go away until I shared this lovely walk and wonderful view with my family & friend. I rate this as one of the best day walks I have done. The grade is well chosen, the path is good, the outlook and immediate surrounds are interesting at almost every step. The view from the top must surely rate as one of the most extensive of any coastal view anywhere and one sees inland also. And to reach such a historic peak adds to the appearance.

hard walk but worth the effort!
now I've got to go all the way down, where's the chopper?
+ Andrew too (father)

Date,

Michael Gehling, 10 yrs, same as above.
I thort the walk was long,
~~but~~ the Mountains like King Kong,

The Moss on the rocks were slippy,
and the yaccas were very prickly.

Now we have to go down,
but it was worth going on Mt. Brown.

Bill Gehling (father of Rock) first climbed this mountain 32 years ago
Still a great climb

23/7/95 We've really enjoyed spending a weekend with the extended family at Mt Brown East and are going to do it annually - Dec turned 50 this year so this weekend has happened - its been excellent to fully Relax

Quite cool at the moment, came up on horse checking fences after great wind few weeks ago. One tree on fence, hopefully sheep haven't got through onto east side, our brand is ⅄ on the back near the rump. left horse down a yards unsaddled. feed looks good after rain a while ago, grass hoppers getting worse. I live on that little hoose on the west side of the hills. you can see all the roads coming up to it.

3/4/99 - Jo Bauer + Gary Mercier Easter weekend. Excellent Day walk. Love the views, peace and particularly the wedgetail Eagle.

3rd- 4th- 5th April 1999 Danni Evans & Peter Hicks - Adelaide.

Upon a sunset we did gaze
An orange red and purple haze
Two lost souls set down for 3 days
The world a million miles away.

A kookaburra sings in a tree nearby
A kangaroo spotted from the corner of my eye
An eagle climbing an ascention with ease
Compared to our climb it seemed like a tease

Atop of Mt Brown, with wind in your face
The pleasure was ours to witness its grace
The only downfall we now have to face
Is dragging ourselves back to the urban rat race!!!

P.S. Dont scrape the ground to hard, we had to shit somewhere.

Jenny, Jesse, Ute and Bruce were here, today, on April the 10th, 1999. Cool view, luv ya!

Billy Clark, Andrew McCance, Elizabeth Wardell Steven & Clive Young, Rodney Waters climbed this hill in the dark (using headlamps) in fierce freezing winds, the night before got to the top at 6.40pm. The fog was thick also - moved south to the saddle (Clarks Saddle) and found relatively flattish ground to camp on. Very cold this morning, some ice but no snow like they had in the Adelaide hills.
The reason we ascended was hopefully to have snow overnight - still a good adventure though.
