PATAWARTA HILL LOG BOOK

This book and its container was provided by Adelaide Bushwalkers Inc. as part of an on-going project to place and maintain log books on some of the major peaks and places of interest in the Flinders Ranges.

Our aim is to provide a permanent record of the visits made to this area. Please feel free to include any comments that may assist in the management or conservation of the area. We would appreciate your observations of native plants and animals as well as pests and the availability of water.

If the log book is damaged or requires replacement, please contact Adelaide Bushwalkers (8431-5339), and we will attempt to replace it as soon as possible.

This is the second log book placed on Patawarta Hill by ABW. The first log book was removed because it was full, and is now held in the library of Federation of SA Walking Clubs Inc.

Enjoy your trip.

'LAND OF THE ORA MUNGA' — Watercolour by Sir Hans Heysen

From the Collection of the Art Gallery of South Australia

8 August 2009

Started walk up here at mid-day. We went up the wrong ridgeline which was making this climb more challenging! Thoroughly worth the effort, perfect weather, perfect view, perfect everything. A good "reality check" from the daily grind of life.

It's now 3:30 pm - just had a late lunch. It's time now to climb down!

16/07/01 A great experience looking out over country we've been walking through for the last 8 years with Of Flinders. Now I can boast to the team that I've climbed this as they struggle past. It was great to share the experience of climbing this part of the experience with two close & life-long friends: Rob & Gwen Duckworth. A plane just flew past only about ~~300m~~^{but} 300m higher and waved its wing tips. A great shared experience with all those who have climbed before & will climb after.

Another Survey Camp - another mountain

We mapped the ancient limestone terraces in the Flinders Range for 9 days. Then walked from Oratunga Station yesterday. The students were dropped off at different places along the Glen Fyans after trying to find a little mine unsuccessfully and 5th Spring unsuccessfully we lunched in the Oratunga Ch. Then found our ways over the Bunderup in the dark with stories of the Scorpion and the Hunter to endure the start wrong. We got into camp to find all the students there. No one was wasted. It's always nice last class of Batavians.

To dear Gilroys who ever make it up here,

Cherished father of Luke Hill and me.

Celeste Hill - and of John Millar son of Mary Durack.

Precious only son of Ernestine Hill (Hannings) and son of Robert - Clyde Packer.

Dad, you were a gifted artist and an extraordinary individual. Thankyou for being different and for sharing your thirst for life, adventure and creativity.

I Love you. Your spirit lives on in your art, in all the people you touched, and, now in the Flinders.

My beloved, Grant Pleass, and I, will be back many times to enjoy this place with you.

Please take care of all who come here!

This is so cool Paul Walker-Symonds

Hello again. This is Izzy this is such a cool mountain.

I'm dreading the walk down though.

Looking through the book, we came across the other class 7 who came on this camp freakin' now if any other year 7 from the waldorf ~~school~~ school reads this, how cool is the camp.
I mean, it is a bit rough, like all your hair gets oily, ~~but its~~ and my hands are all chapped and ~~ripped~~ sore. Coolado!

Well that's it for now. Another visit from Class 7 at Mt. Barker Walkabout School, travelling with Revellis and Berrong from the Bush Safety Company.
We started at Blowering last Wednesday 1st Sept., walked with 25 kids and 7 adults to the Oatgallah. Second night we camped between Oatgalla Pass and Hobart. 3rd night we camped north of Arrowsmith gap, about 1.5 km from Cold Spring. 4th night we camped just beyond Wedge Gap, and walked up here this morning with nearly all of Class 7, Mr Harbold (great camp cook), Lynn Pitman (great mums and Ch. 7 teacher) and myself. A beautiful day. Till next time, Peter Glastonbury fantastic peak at last! We have been walking in this area since 1978 and for one reason or another, the chance to climb Patawanta Hill has eluded us... but today was the day. Our climb was via the NW ridge and then following the ridge lines to the peak where we climbed via the SW face. lots of adrenalin filled moments, the chance to look down on a pair of soaring eagles and a final scramble to the top. What a view!! The wind is rising to 40kn so we had better get down before conditions deteriorate further. Rising deer to the NW... looks like we are in for a bit of a blow. Next stop Mt Abrupt!

My first time camping in the Flinders almost 15 yrs ago was on this station, near the Artimore ruins. This is my first climb to the top of Patawarta Hill: The view is magnificent. The land is in the grip of a bad drought, it's already dry and parched here, the winter rains having failed. Most of the springs have dried out and the country looks like we are already in the heart of summer. Not many wild flowers and also less wild life although we spotted quite a few donkeys which kept up sleepless one night by their loud mating rituals.

31/5/07 1:45pm - took 15 minutes to climb this magnificent mountain. Before I forgot HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Jackie Winkelman, 37 years today.
You could not ask for more perfect weather than what we have today. Apparently I climbed this mountain 13 years ago which would make me 6 years old back then. I don't have much of a recollection of it then but I have photo's to prove it.
Well it was a lovely climb, it's an amazing view ~ could spend hours up here gazing out at the open space. Will definitely do back.

This image shows a single sheet of paper that has been heavily branded with the 'COLLINS' logo. The logo consists of the word 'COLLINS' in a bold, sans-serif font, with 'NOTEBOOKS' in smaller capital letters above it, 'Faint Cash A-Z' below it, and 'SIZES: A4 (SHORT)' at the bottom. This pattern repeats across the entire page. Overlaid on these repeated logos are several handwritten signatures in blue ink. These signatures include: 'Bushes Japan CO' at the top left; 'Michael Collins' in large letters near the bottom left; '25/10/09' written twice; 'Michael Collins' again; 'BAVAXE' in large letters; and 'SIZES: A4 (SHORT)' appearing twice in the bottom right. There are also some small blue dots and a blue line drawn across the page.
