This book was placed on Pompey's Pillar
as part of a program by Adelaide Bushwalkers to provide log books on most of the significant peaks and points of interest in the Flinders Ranges

Our intention was to enable bushwalk parties to record their achievements and provide them with an opportunity to share their experiences in writing. This book will

Left Wilpena Shale 8.30 am on 8th June 1986
 Walked through Wilpena Pound towards Edson's Gorge. Walked through to Glenora Falls.
 Camped 300 m from Mallooga Falls.
 9th June left to climb Pampay Pillar.
 from Mallooga Falls 8.45 am Reached summit 11.45 am Walking through Pound back to Shale by 3.00 pm Monday 9th June 1986.

6th Sept
 1986.

Left Wilpena Shale 8.30, arrived at Corinda 10 am. Followed creek up to saddle between Pampays and ^{DOROTHY PEARL} ~~the~~ then up southern ridge line. Arrived at 12.15. Descend by NE ridge to Glenora Falls and Edson's Gorge. Camp at Corinda tonight.
 Where going to not check tomorrow but will head north instead up towards Breckena gorge.

KEN YOUNG DARWIN BUSHWALKING CLUB.

ROBERT HASSERL PRELAIKE BUSHWALKERS.

Unusually wet year. Water in many creeks and countryside very green

9 Sept 86 Left Edson's cairn at 8 am. Bashed straight 10.00 AM up. Best views.

Scripture Union Bushwalkers

1/2 are a party of 16 on a

Flinders Bushwalk camp. Sunday we climbed Mount Alack. Monday via Buckle Gap to the rockhole above Coinda. To-day main group to St Mary Peak and 3
us here to Pompey Pillar.
We came straight up from Edeowie camp Home via Dorothy Peak.

To-morrow Edeowie Gorge
to the top Bone
Weather cloudy warm.

Alan Dutton

John Thompson - fantastic views!

Eally* Nicholas - ~~now~~ ^{now} it's worth the effort.

12 Oct '86 Camped Friday night by Morakina Crk - left the car at Cross October Long Water. Climbed up through the Bunbinyana Range. Water is Week end. still flowing in many creeks. Camped in valley below. Left at 8.00 and arrived at summit at 12.30. Ascended via a series of ridges below Beatrice Hill and then crossed back to Pompey Side and bashed our way straight up. Intending to camp near Utanoona Spring tonight.

15 Nov '86 Walked up from the top of Edeowie, and am now sitting here trying to distract aeroplanes. Hope we don't get fried like a chip. The gin and tonics up here are great as is the view. Are heading back to the waterhole for a swim before going further down the gorge.

Samie Day + Robin Tideman

Good thing I've got a degree, else I would have never got into the arse. How about sticking in the old logs.

26th Feb 1987. Were the 1st up here this year (1st Wilson) as expected a great view. Came up at 1200pm - arrived from Camp Coomda directly West. We found at 5:15pm the scrub lower down difficult to get through.
We will try a route down further to the South.

It's only when you attempt such climbs that you find out how unfit you are. - Bye for now

Quentin Carrington

PS. I'm taking the top 3 feet home with me. I'll bring it back next week. - honest! - I will. !!

PSS! I couldn't find the coke machine some one must have pinched it.

26/2/87 Dominic Carrington from Adelaide. Did not expect to find a book here. Camped on the Nordana side yesterday, tonight will be somewhere in the park. Running out of time, have to go now

Dominic

20th MAY 1987.

Part 3 of Flinders ^{Ranges} study recuperation programme.
This morning made a bee-line from Coomda camp to Rimpang Pillar. The scrub on lower slopes is enough to put anyone off. But the effort is worth it. Bloody obvious view in $\frac{1}{2}$ hr at all the ground. Top quality weather.

Thank god I didn't let myself become demotivated by the scrub lower down, we came up via ridges etc and it was hellishly difficult but, at the top, WHPATA BUZZ!

Erik Lock (Roseworthy Ag. College) To outdoor club if you get there we made it first!

Glad Erik had a ~~big~~ guilt trip and became motivated because we finally made it to the summit.

5th June 1987

Pembroke Yr 11 Outdoor Ed. Camp.

The scrub below is lovely!!!! (like hell) but the views are magnificent. Our observer (co-ord.) dragged us up here but it was worth it. We go down Edinowie tomorrow. ~~and~~ ~~the~~ And then somewhere back on Monday.

Parachilna Road last Tuesday 19th and have followed main ridge line from Mt Samuel to here. Will at least continue to Bridle Gap, depending on time now. Overcast day with wind gusting to 50 knots (believe me!) Good to see the regeneration after the fire, particularly the eucalypts, however the goats are browsing most of it off in the vicinity of Reggies Nob - Beatrice Hill. I could have put my 22-250 to good use at times this morning!

Once upon a time 13 egyptians left Adelaide, set up camp in a parking bay in the rain, (minus tent pegs & poles), and the next day climbed to the lower slopes of Pompeys Pillar, camped, consumed vast quantities of port, suffered numerous bad jokes, wandered this morning.

Here's a tip for all novice bushwalkers — do not indulge in bowel stopping, enjoy your walks — I say crap between camps. For instance room below this peak on oasis of soft soil and fine shrubbery exists. So the next time you think of stinking up your camp site think again.

P.S. Just something I wanted to pass on.

Paul Phipps

P.S. Why are so many bushwalkers illiterate Kunt's?

12/11/89

Looks Like I'm the first person to make it here in November. Maybe its just because Victorians have no clues. Our Mountains love water running out of them. Still there was good water in Edowice gorge and that's the only reason I'm here. Glad too.

I drove up here from Melbourne looking for a bit of space and a little escape from work (I quit). On the way I drove through the Port Campbell national Park. I had never been there before and had great expectations. To great!

I couldn't believe that you simply drove along the Great Ocean Road to the appropriate spots, got out of your car, took photos and left again, or at least ^{until} the next "exhibit". It was the flattest, most disappointing experience I have ever had in the "Natural" environment. I'm glad I forgot to bring ^{film} so I didn't have to fulfil the stereotype so much.

It was like taking in the "fast food" of nature, quick, cheap and you don't get very dirty. Its nothing compared to the experience you gain from walking to a place. It seems to me you have a chance to feel the environment a little, a chance to put what ever you are walking to into a little perspective with the rest of the ~~out~~ world. Not just beauty dished up on a plate.

Port Campbell is spectacular, when I was there, there was a huge swell coming in and waves were sending spray ^{up} higher than the cliffs in places. But I wasn't part of it, I was just a spectator watching it on Video.

But here as with any other place I've worked to get to, I'm part of it, or as much as I can be. The basis of all this is, don't let Wilperna or anywhere else for that matter become as soulless as I saw Port Campbell^{was}. We don't need the resort, we don't need the money.

People should come to national parks ~~to~~ looking for things, within themselves, within nature, within other people. If they want to come and be told what to photograph by little signs, or only get out of the car to read the natural history information board in the carpark, don't let them come at all. Resorts cater for these sort of people.

You may think I'm on the Aragunt side with thoughts like these. You can say that everyone has the right to see these places, to create "wonderful" revenue for our "wonderful" country. Before I came to this place I considered this attitude arrogant, but not since I've been here.
There is ~~now~~ way people can destroy the integrity of this place for the sake of popularising it. It's that simple - and this is before we even consider the environmental effect such a resort shall have!

With hope

Sheep Bagger Malve.

On the lighter side - sit around quietly for a while and dig the blue and yellow lizard who lives up here (guardian of the book they say). He became over zealous and went for some insect and ended up in the box - we had a chat (maybe I am mad after all) didn't resolve much though.
Was fun ~~also~~ watching his reactions as

JAPS IN SHORT.
GO HOME!

a wedgetail flew over, I didn't seem to bother him at all - ~~am~~ getting as ineffectual as that?

This is by far the best peak I've bagged, not that I've done many, spun me right out (as you can see).

Anyway maybe I'll be back soon, at least to shoot the bloody goats. my ego trip ~~etc~~ ends here. well

Finally the rain blew away & left us with a sparkling green, sun-drenched Pond to wander at. Biting blisters & stinging sun did nothing to diminish the impact of the icy breath of wind that swept up the cliffs to greet us on arrival. Surely the best spot from which to view this extraordinary piece of creation.

To all who follow, come not to conquer,
but to commune.

And yes, if in strange aeons death does indeed die, then jump and soar for eternity.

Sighted the Flying Lesbian Cow with the Large Left Testicle on the Southern Ridge of Pompey's Pillar at 12.00pm today.
This follows several other encounters with strange creatures during our six day journey around the pond, including:

- 1) Mt. Ohlson Bagge : one infamous Australian Yowie
- 2) Saddle next to Mt. Boney : reportedly the habitat for several dangling Vics, although this is unconfirmed
- 3) Ramsley Bluff : several strange stone pillars, believed to be navigational aids for prehistoric space craft
- 4) Fred's knob : Fred's knob
- 5) Brille Gap : birds shall be closely guarded in this area, be to the strange nocturnal feeding habits of last, under-aged vic students foraging around.

- 6) Black Gap : Nesting area for the above - use extreme caution
- 7) Coorinda Camp : Final resting place of Bazza the Bungip

In our quest to seek out Australia's most exotic wildlife, ~~we~~ in our attempt achieve ultimate recognition with Nobel prizes all round, in our search for the ultimate meaning of Life the Universe & Everything, on our way to worldwide media coverage (and with our ultimate aim of reaching the Quorn pub), at sunrise tomorrow we will ascend the almighty famed St. Mary's Peak, on the last day of our epic adventure (and on the last line of this epic sentence).

Cruised up here yesterday with our packs and slept over! Took 6hrs from car park. Wicked views! Damn Hardcore! Was a bit damp and cold overnight from clouds/fog. Choice weather during day although a bit hazy. Matt and I are going to push on to I don't know, somewhere else. I've taken about 2½ films.

AWESOME, best views in flinders. Slept overnight at summit, lugged over 30kg of supplies in big pack - great workout. Ideal place for posing for photo shoots, especially in this perfect weather - luckily I have the build to push through all the scrub to get here. Ill be back!!

Actually quite manageable. Top weather for Easter & no crowds out here.

14/7/01 A hard slog but worth the effort bluie, young 14/7/01 Thrd time lucky + we made it! View is fantastic, but don't ask me to do it again! Nette Waters.
- Just A nice morning walk!!! 3rd time
Lucky - AND ALL WORTHWHILE! Rob Waters

14/7/01 Im here and it looks great, 1180 metres above sea level and my dad even made it

As a pommie going home in a couple months - Thanks Australia!! The Flinders are awesome and I'm bloody pleased to be up here!

Take Care Fellow Walkers. Cheers!

2:40 pm Walked in from the Challer this morning on a mission to replace book. Someone had left the lid off a few months ago.

It's absolutely fantastic up here. The heavy rains of the last couple of weeks have ended the pond flow green & boggy. We're about to head down to Edinowie gorge & look it out - should still be flowing.
